

CONFERENCE MUSIC AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Delayed Account of the Grand Music at M. E. Church on the 12th, with Short Sketches of the Singers and Organist.

For want of space this general comment on the Sunday Conference music at the First Methodist Church was inadvertently omitted in last week's issue.

The great Conference has come and gone and everybody is delighted with its grand success and good work accomplished. The Sunday services at the Methodist Church were especially fine. Both sermons, by Rev. Waterhouse and Dr. Snyder, were grand efforts, long to be remembered. Then the music by that choir of well-known artists will never be forgotten. Without question or debate those were the two most elaborate church musical triumphs ever rendered in the whole press of the upper Carolina, and the whole press of the state has eulogized its rendition, and it has been the talk of Church and State—but with such vocalists and such an organist how could it have been otherwise?

Miss Mary E. Chritzberg, solo contralto of Converse College, Spartanburg, round, rich, deep voice of such magnificent range and timbre. So sympathetic, mellow, and full of warmth was it that her duet with Miss Long in the "Te Deum" brought tears to the eyes of some in the immense congregation, as did her solo in the "Gloria." With her charming manners and strong personality she will always be a welcome guest to the choir of the Methodist church, to whom she has greatly endeared herself. We consider her the finest cultivated contralto in this state without exception.

Now let us note Mrs. Jas. L. McMillan, the regular choir soprano soloist, and how beautifully she acquitted herself in the "Gloria in Excelsis" and "Veni Creator." She sang that most pathetic "Qui Tollis" with such artistic finish and sympathy, that she also gathered tears from the audience and held them in breathless silence. Her solo at the evening service was also most beautifully rendered. Then Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Coleman, Miss Blanche Garry, and Mr. Hill, all sang their parts to perfection.

Mr. Richard Plenge, who responded from Charleston, was a most valuable question to the choir, and his voice to score and skillful in rendition. His voice is a rich baritone of excellent timbre, inherited from his lovely mother, Madame Plenge, who for 30 years was organist and soloist in the Episcopal Church in the City by the Sea. Besides this, she was the leading vocal teacher there for the same number of years. She was endeared to all she came in contact with, and died only a few years ago to private life.

Mr. Osborne Basso of Anderson was also a valuable assistant and with his rich and powerful bass voice added much to the grand ensembles of the choruses and soloists. He is a member of the Methodist church of the electric city above.

Now, last but not least, we must say something of Prof. Huguleit, our most efficient organist and soloist, who brought this Conference music to such a high standard of perfection. And we all think his perseverance has reaped its reward by the kind letters and telegrams he has received from three states full of congratulations, "well done," etc. He never fails in any musical function he undertakes, and always comes out on top by his perseverance and hard work. He has the reputation for musical critics and authorities as being the most tasteful and ablest organist in the state, and as an organizer, none can equal him. His musical functions are notable in several large cities, especially in Charleston where he was nurtured. And Atlanta also has prospered among the profession, where he did considerable church and quartette work, besides giving recitals to the elite on Peachtree Street. We thank him for his mastery performance on Conference Sunday of making that grand choir sing, and that great pipe organ talk.

THE COTTON TREE.

Not many people know that there is such a thing as a cotton tree, there is however in most tropical countries such a tree. It grows to be as large as our oaks here in the temperate zone. The fruit is similar to the pod of the vine commonly known here as "Cow itch" the two pods are similar in color and similar in shape. The pod of the cotton tree is much larger.

When the cotton tree is ready to give up its fruit the pods fall off and burst open. The ground beneath the tree is completely covered with the lint which scatters like a shattered "cat tail."

The cotton is of a very short fiber, not longer than the finger nail, but is never very useful. Most tropical people do use mattresses but they do use pillows galore all these pillows are stuffed with this cotton. Owing to the shortness of the lint it will not become nappy like ordinary cotton when used in this way.

This question of cotton supply would be forever settled should some wizard like Burbank lengthen the lint of the cotton tree.

The latest folly from the fat witted, feather brained, feeble minded femininity who engineer the fashions, is the aero plane hat. The merry widow monocle was not enough. Now it is no planes bi planes, tri planes, balloons! Of course the price will be in keeping with the names.

Central American cities in Mexico City have served up to "Uncle Sam" a dainty bit of protest over his treatment of Yelaya, saying that "Uncle Sam's" note is not inspired by a friendly government act, intimating that it behooves the five republics to be on the alert lest they be swallowed up.
